

Stanley George
ECE 460: Computer Operating Systems
Jeff Hakner
PS4: Fixing your cat

Hardware: (using lscpu command)

Architecture: i686
CPU op-mode(s): 32-bit, 64-bit
Byte Order: Little Endian
CPU(s): 2
On-line CPU(s) list: 0,1
Thread(s) per core: 1
Core(s) per socket: 2
Socket(s): 1
Vendor ID: GenuineIntel
CPU family: 6
Model: 15
Stepping: 13
CPU MHz: 1601.000
BogoMIPS: 3191.19
L1d cache: 32K
L1i cache: 32K
L2 cache: 2048K

Operating System: (using uname -mrs)

Linux 3.13.0-37-generic i686

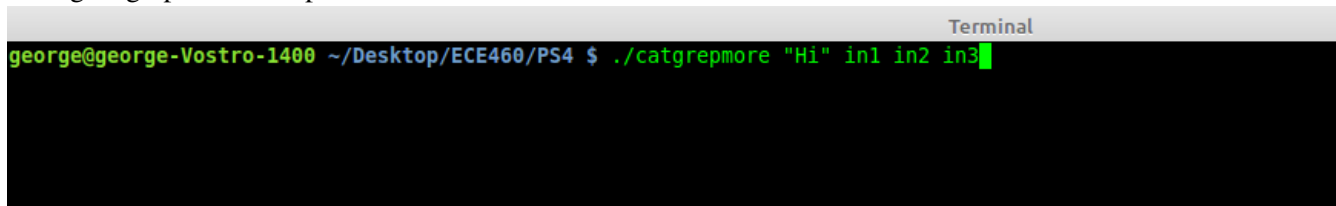

Makefile:

```
catgrepmore:
    gcc -std=c99 -g catgrepmore.c -o catgrepmore
```

Notes: The input files were a minimum of 2.5 MB and a maximum of 20 MB

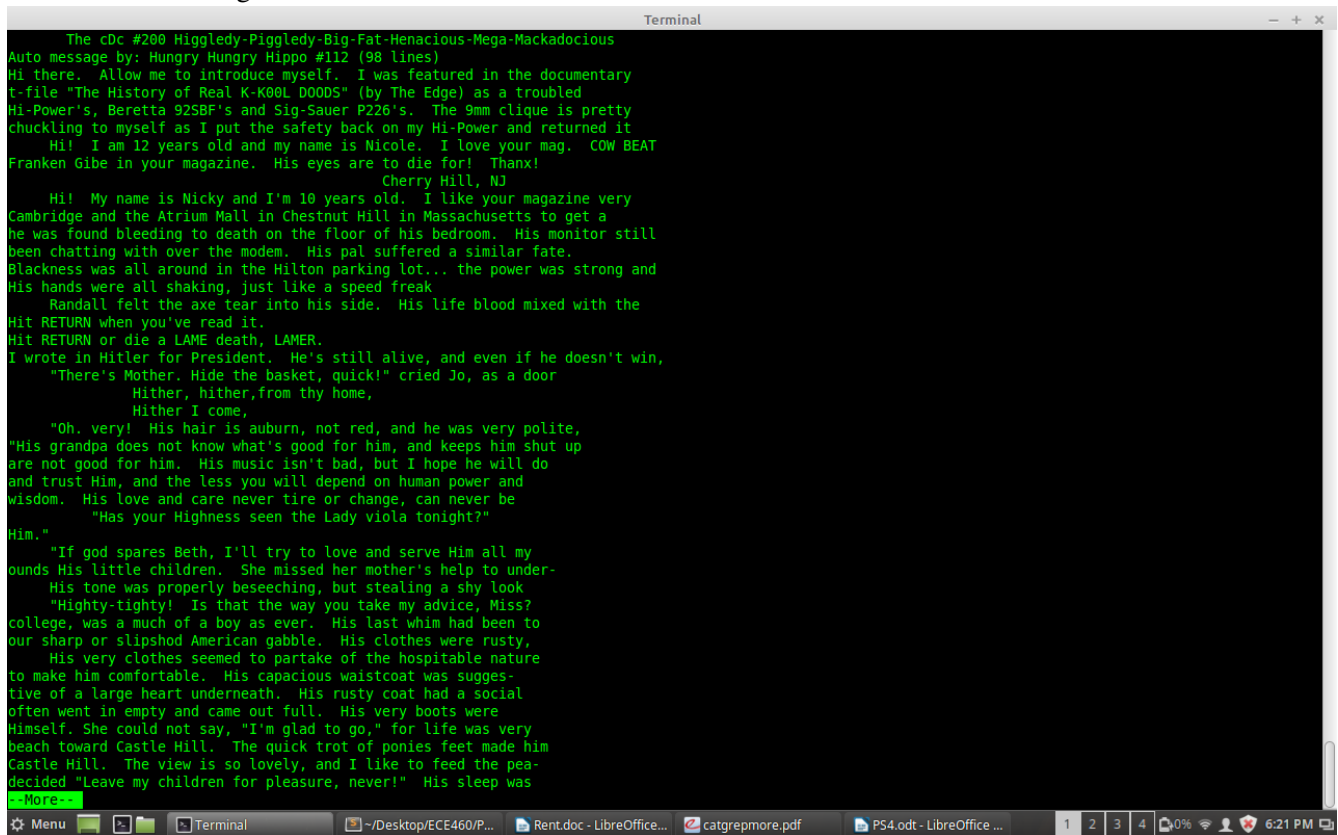

Screenshots:

0) Running catgrepmore with pattern = "Hi":

A terminal window titled "Terminal" with a dark background. The prompt is "george@george-Vostro-1400 ~/Desktop/ECE460/PS4 $". The command being entered is "./catgrepmore 'Hi' in1 in2 in3". The cursor is at the end of the command.

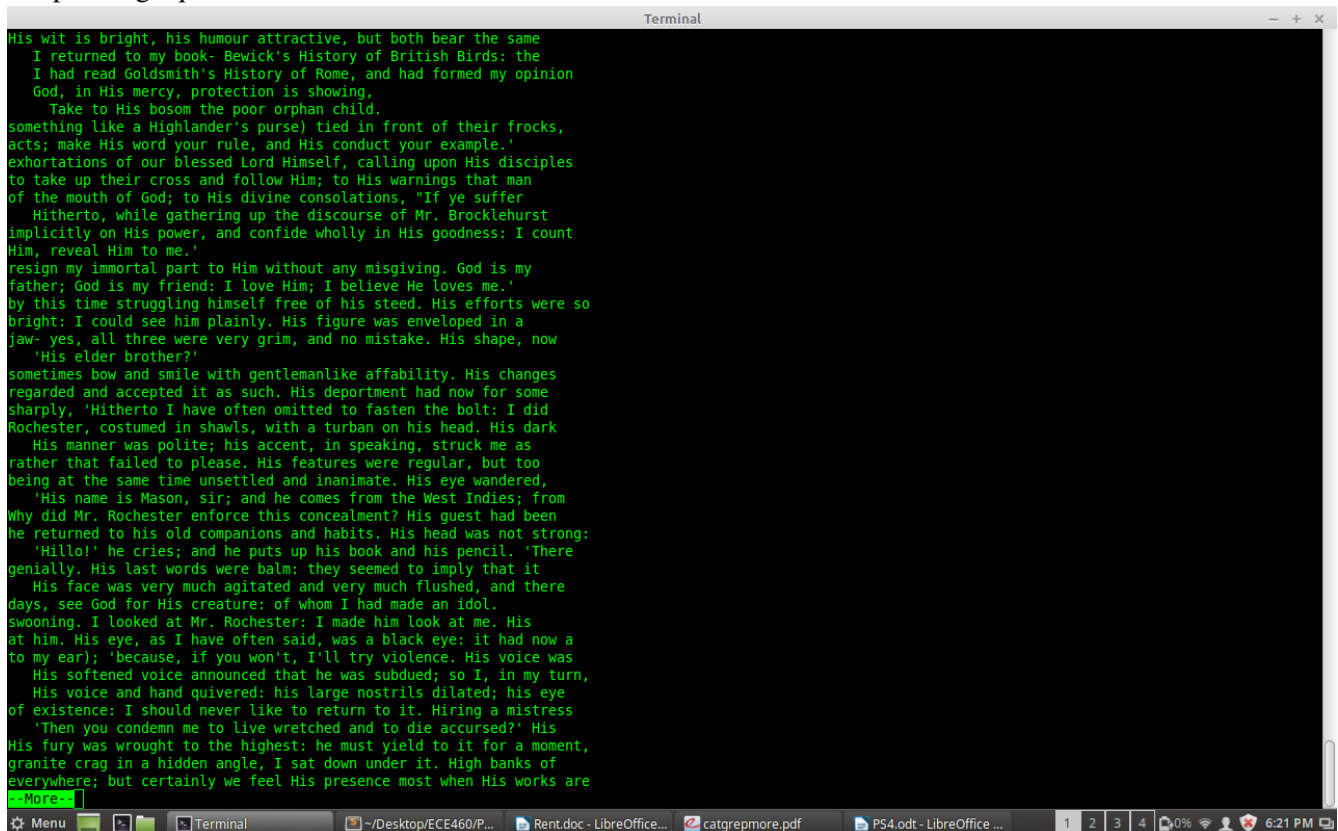

```
Terminal
george@george-Vostro-1400 ~/Desktop/ECE460/PS4 $ ./catgrepmore "Hi" in1 in2 in3
```

1) 1st screen after running above command:

```
The cdc #200 Higgledy-Piggledy-Big-Fat-Henacious-Mega-Mackadocious
Auto message by: Hungry Hungry Hippo #112 (98 lines)
Hi there. Allow me to introduce myself. I was featured in the documentary t-file "The History of Real K-K00L D00D5" (by The Edge) as a troubled Hi-Power's, Beretta 92SBF's and Sig-Sauer P226's. The 9mm clique is pretty chuckling to myself as I put the safety back on my Hi-Power and returned it Hi! I am 12 years old and my name is Nicole. I love your mag. COW BEAT Franken Gibe in your magazine. His eyes are to die for! Thank!
Cherry Hill, NJ
Hi! My name is Nicky and I'm 10 years old. I like your magazine very Cambridge and the Atrium Mall in Chestnut Hill in Massachusetts to get a he was found bleeding to death on the floor of his bedroom. His monitor still been chatting with over the modem. His pal suffered a similar fate.
Blackness was all around in the Hilton parking lot... the power was strong and His hands were all shaking, just like a speed freak Randall felt the axe tear into his side. His life blood mixed with the Hit RETURN when you've read it.
Hit RETURN or die a LAME death, LAMER.
I wrote in Hitler for President. He's still alive, and even if he doesn't win,
"There's Mother. Hide the basket, quick!" cried Jo, as a door
Hither, hither, from thy home, Hither I come,
"Oh, very! His hair is auburn, not red, and he was very polite,
"His grandpa does not know what's good for him, and keeps him shut up are not good for him. His music isn't bad, but I hope he will do and trust Him, and the less you will depend on human power and wisdom. His love and care never tire or change, can never be "Has your Highness seen the Lady viola tonight?"
Him."
"If god spares Beth, I'll try to love and serve Him all my ounds His little children. She missed her mother's help to under-His tone was properly beseeching, but stealing a shy look "Highty-tighty! Is that the way you take my advice, Miss?
college, was a much of a boy as ever. His last whim had been to our sharp or slipshod American gabble. His clothes were rusty, His very clothes seemed to partake of the hospitable nature to make him comfortable. His capacious waistcoat was suggestive of a large heart underneath. His rusty coat had a social often went in empty and came out full. His very boots were Himself. She could not say, "I'm glad to go," for life was very beach toward Castle Hill. The quick trot of ponies feet made him Castle Hill. The view is so lovely, and I like to feed the pea-decided "Leave my children for pleasure, never!" His sleep was
--More--
```

2) After pressing “q” once, move to next infile

```
His wit is bright, his humour attractive, but both bear the same
I returned to my book- Bewick's History of British Birds: the
I had read Goldsmith's History of Rome, and had formed my opinion
God, in His mercy, protection is showing, Take to His bosom the poor orphan child.
something like a Highlander's purse) tied in front of their frocks, acts; make His word your rule, and His conduct your example.'
exhortations of our blessed Lord Himself, calling upon His disciples to take up their cross and follow Him; to His warnings that man of the mouth of God; to His divine consolations, "If ye suffer Hitherto, while gathering up the discourse of Mr. Brocklehurst implicitly on His power, and confide wholly in His goodness: I count Him, reveal Him to me.'
resign my immortal part to Him without any misgiving. God is my father; God is my friend: I love Him; I believe He loves me.'
by this time struggling himself free of his steed. His efforts were so bright: I could see him plainly. His figure was enveloped in a jaw- yes, all three were very grim, and no mistake. His shape, now 'His elder brother?'
sometimes bow and smile with gentlemanlike affability. His changes regarded and accepted it as such. His deportment had now for some sharply, 'Hitherto I have often omitted to fasten the bolt: I did Rochester, costumed in shawls, with a turban on his head. His dark His manner was polite; his accent, in speaking, struck me as rather that failed to please. His features were regular, but too being at the same time unsettled and inanimate. His eye wandered,
'His name is Mason, sir; and he comes from the West Indies; from why did Mr. Rochester enforce this concealment? His guest had been he returned to his old companions and habits. His head was not strong:
'Hillo!' he cries; and he puts up his book and his pencil. 'There genially. His last words were balm: they seemed to imply that it His face was very much agitated and very much flushed, and there days, see God for His creature: of whom I had made an idol. swooning. I looked at Mr. Rochester: I made him look at me. His at him. His eye, as I have often said, was a black eye: it had now a to my ear); 'because, if you won't, I'll try violence. His voice was His softened voice announced that he was subdued; so I, in my turn,
His voice and hand quivered: his large nostrils dilated; his eye of existence: I should never like to return to it. Hiring a mistress 'Then you condemn me to live wretched and to die accursed?' His His fury was wrought to the highest: he must yield to it for a moment, granite crag in a hidden angle, I sat down under it. High banks of everywhere; but certainly we feel His presence most when His works are status of grep and more after having left first infile (this is not shown in the screen shot bc of length of output):
--More--
```

catgrepmore: grep: child process with pid=7632 exited normally

catgrepmore: more: child process with pid=7633 exited normally

3) After pressing “q” second time, move to next and last infile:

```
Terminal
One night--it was on the twentieth of March, 1888--I was returning from a journey to a patient (for I had now returned to civil practice), when my way led me through Baker Street. As I passed the well-remembered door, which must always be associated in my mind with my wooing, and with the dark incidents of the Study in Scarlet, I was seized with a keen desire to see Holmes again, and to know how he was employing his extraordinary powers. His rooms were brilliantly lit, and, even as I looked up, I saw his tall, spare figure pass twice in a dark silhouette against the blind. He was pacing the room swiftly, eagerly, with his head sunk upon his chest and his hands clasped behind him. To me, who knew his every mood and habit, his attitude and manner told their own story. He was at work again. He had risen out of his drug-created dreams and was hot upon the scent of some new problem. I rang the bell and was shown up to the chamber which had formerly been in part my own.

His manner was not effusive. It seldom was; but he was glad, I think, to see me. With hardly a word spoken, but with a kindly eye, he waved me to an armchair, threw across his case of cigars, and indicated a spirit case and a gasogene in the corner. Then he stood before the fire and looked me over in his singular introspective fashion.

"Not at all. The 'G' with the small 't' stands for 'Gesellschaft,' which is the German for 'Company.' It is a customary contraction like our 'Co.' 'P.' of course, stands for 'Papier.' Now for the 'Eg.' Let us glance at our Continental Gazetteer." He took down a heavy brown volume from his shelves. "Egglow, Egglonitz--here we are, Egria. It is in a German-speaking country--in Bohemia, not far from Carlsbad. Remarkable as being the scene of the death of Wallenstein, and for its numerous glass-factories and paper-mills." Ha, ha, my boy, what do you make of that?" His eyes sparkled, and he sent up a great blue triumphant cloud from his cigarette.

A man entered who could hardly have been less than six feet six inches in height, with the chest and limbs of a Hercules. His dress was rich with a richness which would, in England, be looked upon as akin to bad taste. Heavy bands of astrakhan were slashed across the sleeves and fronts of his double-breasted coat, while the deep blue cloak which was thrown over his shoulders was lined with flame-coloured silk and secured at the neck with a brooch which consisted of a single flaming beryl. Boots which extended halfway up his calves, and which were trimmed at the tops with rich brown fur, completed the impression of barbaric opulence which was suggested by his whole appearance. He carried a broad-brimmed hat in his hand, while he wore across the upper part of his face, extending down past the cheekbones, a black vizard mask, which he had apparently adjusted that very moment, for his hand was still raised to it as he entered. From the lower part of the face he appeared to be a man of strong character, with a thick, hanging lip, and a long, straight chin suggestive of resolution pushed to the length of obstinacy.

He disappeared into his bedroom and returned in a few minutes in the character of an amiable and simple-minded Nonconformist clergyman. His broad black hat, his baggy trousers, his white tie, his sympathetic smile, and general look of peering and benevolent curiosity were such as Mr. John Hare alone could have equalled. It was not merely that Holmes changed his costume. His expression, his manner, his very soul seemed to vary with every fresh part that he assumed. The stage lost a fine actor, even as science lost an acute reasoner, when he became a specialist in crime.

"His name is Vincent Spaulding, and he's not such a youth, either. It's hard to say his age. I should not wish a smarter assistant, Mr. Holmes; and I know very well that he could better himself and earn twice what I am able to give him. But, after all, if he is satisfied, why should I put ideas in his head?"

"His face fell immediately."

"John Clay, the murderer, thief, smasher, and forger. He's a young man, Mr. Merryweather, but he is at the head of his profession, and I would rather have my bracelets on him than on any criminal in London. He's a remarkable man, is young John Clay. His grandfather was a royal duke, and he himself has been to Eton and Oxford. His brain is as cunning as his fingers, and though we meet signs of him at every turn, we never know where to find the man himself. He'll crack a crib in Scotland one week, and be raising money to build an orphanage in Cornwall the next. I've been on his track for years and have never set eyes on him yet."

"All right," said Jones with a stare and a snigger. "Well, would you please, sir, march upstairs, where we can get a cab to carry your Highness to the police-station?"

"So far I had got when we went to visit the scene of action. I surprised you by beating upon the pavement with my stick. I was ascertaining whether the cellar stretched out in front or behind. It was not in front. Then I rang the bell, and, as I hoped, the assistant answered it. We have had some skirmishes, but we had never set eyes upon each other before. I hardly looked at his face. His knees were what I wished to see. You must yourself have remarked how worn, wrinkled, and stained they were. They spoke of those hours of burrowing. The only remaining point was what they were burrowing for. I walked round the corner, saw the City and Suburban Bank abutting on our friend's premises, and felt that I had solved my problem. When you drove home after the concert I called upon Scotland Yard and upon the chairman of the bank directors, with the result that you have seen."
```

status of grep and more after having left 2nd infile (this is not shown in the screen shot bc of length of output): catgrepmore: grep: child process with pid=7642 exited normally

```
```

```
catgrepmore: more: child process with pid=7643 exited normally
```

4) After pressing “q” third time, and exiting entire program

```
Terminal
y in Scarlet, I was seized with a keen desire to see Holmes again, and to know how he was employing his extraordinary powers. His rooms were brilliantly lit, and, even as I looked up, I saw his tall, spare figure pass twice in a dark silhouette against the blind. He was pacing the room swiftly, eagerly, with his head sunk upon his chest and his hands clasped behind him. To me, who knew his every mood and habit, his attitude and manner told their own story. He was at work again. He had risen out of his drug-created dreams and was hot upon the scent of some new problem. I rang the bell and was shown up to the chamber which had formerly been in part my own.

His manner was not effusive. It seldom was; but he was glad, I think, to see me. With hardly a word spoken, but with a kindly eye, he waved me to an armchair, threw across his case of cigars, and indicated a spirit case and a gasogene in the corner. Then he stood before the fire and looked me over in his singular introspective fashion.

"Not at all. The 'G' with the small 't' stands for 'Gesellschaft,' which is the German for 'Company.' It is a customary contraction like our 'Co.' 'P.' of course, stands for 'Papier.' Now for the 'Eg.' Let us glance at our Continental Gazetteer." He took down a heavy brown volume from his shelves. "Egglow, Egglonitz--here we are, Egria. It is in a German-speaking country--in Bohemia, not far from Carlsbad. Remarkable as being the scene of the death of Wallenstein, and for its numerous glass-factories and paper-mills." Ha, ha, my boy, what do you make of that?" His eyes sparkled, and he sent up a great blue triumphant cloud from his cigarette.

A man entered who could hardly have been less than six feet six inches in height, with the chest and limbs of a Hercules. His dress was rich with a richness which would, in England, be looked upon as akin to bad taste. Heavy bands of astrakhan were slashed across the sleeves and fronts of his double-breasted coat, while the deep blue cloak which was thrown over his shoulders was lined with flame-coloured silk and secured at the neck with a brooch which consisted of a single flaming beryl. Boots which extended halfway up his calves, and which were trimmed at the tops with rich brown fur, completed the impression of barbaric opulence which was suggested by his whole appearance. He carried a broad-brimmed hat in his hand, while he wore across the upper part of his face, extending down past the cheekbones, a black vizard mask, which he had apparently adjusted that very moment, for his hand was still raised to it as he entered. From the lower part of the face he appeared to be a man of strong character, with a thick, hanging lip, and a long, straight chin suggestive of resolution pushed to the length of obstinacy.

He disappeared into his bedroom and returned in a few minutes in the character of an amiable and simple-minded Nonconformist clergyman. His broad black hat, his baggy trousers, his white tie, his sympathetic smile, and general look of peering and benevolent curiosity were such as Mr. John Hare alone could have equalled. It was not merely that Holmes changed his costume. His expression, his manner, his very soul seemed to vary with every fresh part that he assumed. The stage lost a fine actor, even as science lost an acute reasoner, when he became a specialist in crime.

"His name is Vincent Spaulding, and he's not such a youth, either. It's hard to say his age. I should not wish a smarter assistant, Mr. Holmes; and I know very well that he could better himself and earn twice what I am able to give him. But, after all, if he is satisfied, why should I put ideas in his head?"

"His face fell immediately."

"John Clay, the murderer, thief, smasher, and forger. He's a young man, Mr. Merryweather, but he is at the head of his profession, and I would rather have my bracelets on him than on any criminal in London. He's a remarkable man, is young John Clay. His grandfather was a royal duke, and he himself has been to Eton and Oxford. His brain is as cunning as his fingers, and though we meet signs of him at every turn, we never know where to find the man himself. He'll crack a crib in Scotland one week, and be raising money to build an orphanage in Cornwall the next. I've been on his track for years and have never set eyes on him yet."

"All right," said Jones with a stare and a snigger. "Well, would you please, sir, march upstairs, where we can get a cab to carry your Highness to the police-station?"

"So far I had got when we went to visit the scene of action. I surprised you by beating upon the pavement with my stick. I was ascertaining whether the cellar stretched out in front or behind. It was not in front. Then I rang the bell, and, as I hoped, the assistant answered it. We have had some skirmishes, but we had never set eyes upon each other before. I hardly looked at his face. His knees were what I wished to see. You must yourself have remarked how worn, wrinkled, and stained they were. They spoke of those hours of burrowing. The only remaining point was what they were burrowing for. I walked round the corner, saw the City and Suburban Bank abutting on our friend's premises, and felt that I had solved my problem. When you drove home after the concert I called upon Scotland Yard and upon the chairman of the bank directors, with the result that you have seen."

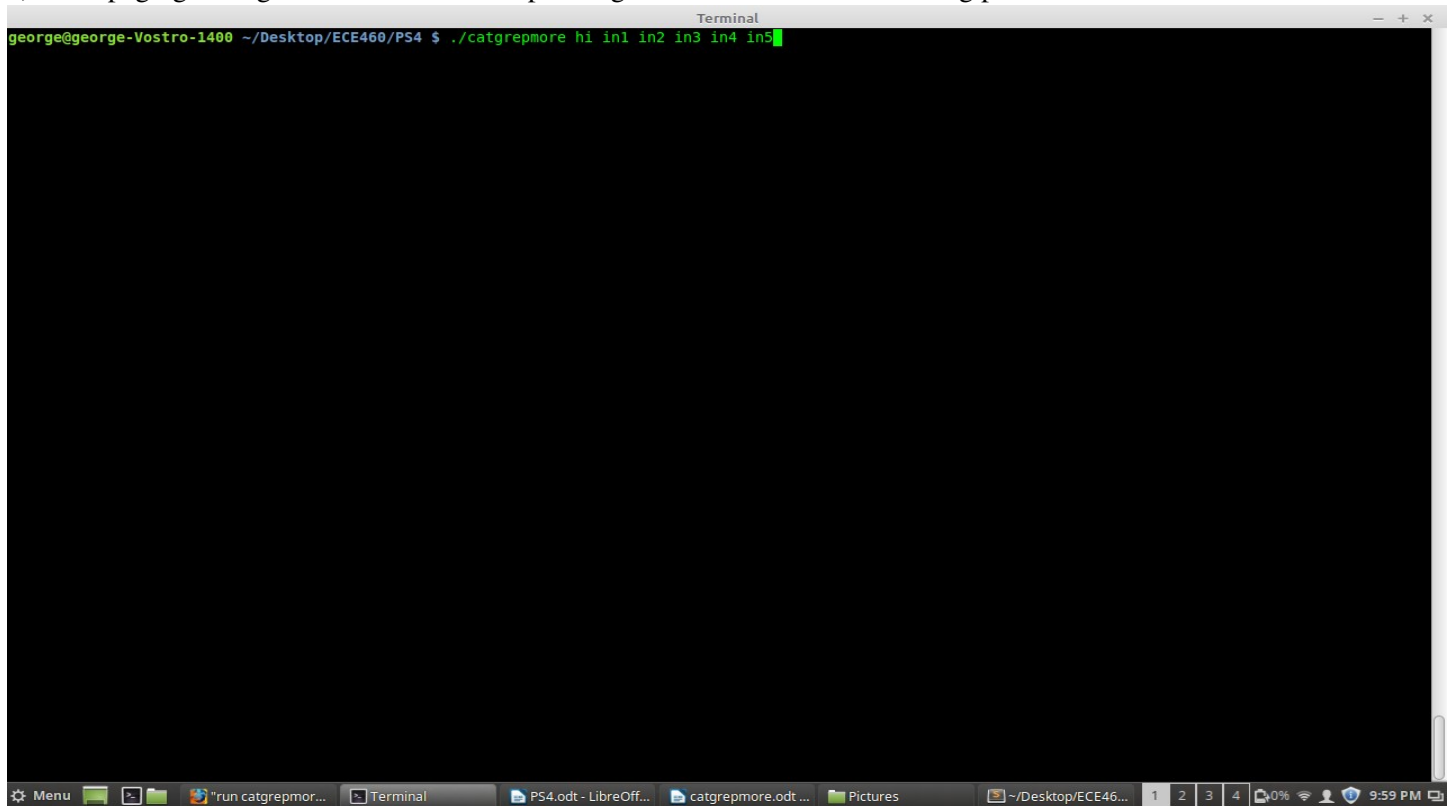

catgrepmore: grep: child process with pid=7650 exited normally
catgrepmore: more: child process with pid=7651 exited normally
george@george-Vostro-1400 ~/Desktop/ECE460/PS4 $
```

status of grep and more after having left 3rd infile and exited the program (this is not shown in the screen shot bc of length of output):

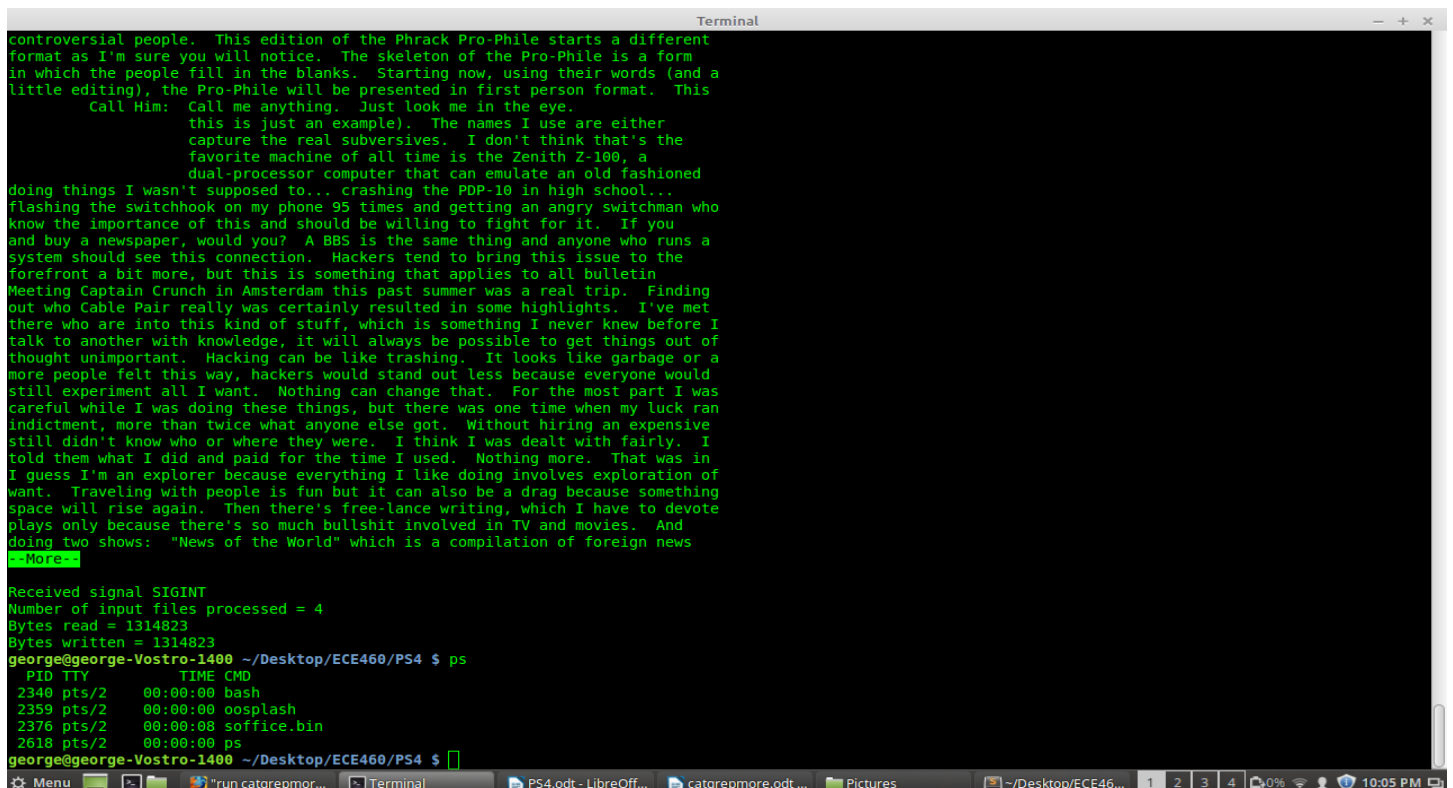

```
catgrepmore: grep: child process with pid=7650 exited normally
```

```
catgrepmore: more: child process with pid=7651 exited normally
```

5) After paging through some files and then pressing “CTRL C” and then running ps:

```
Terminal
george@george-Vostro-1400 ~/Desktop/ECE460/PS4 $ ./catgrepmore hi in1 in2 in3 in4 in5
```

```
Terminal
controversial people. This edition of the Phrack Pro-Phile starts a different format as I'm sure you will notice. The skeleton of the Pro-Phile is a form in which the people fill in the blanks. Starting now, using their words (and a little editing), the Pro-Phile will be presented in first person format. This Call Him: Call me anything. Just look me in the eye.
this is just an example). The names I use are either capture the real subversives. I don't think that's the favorite machine of all time is the Zenith Z-100, a dual-processor computer that can emulate an old fashioned doing things I wasn't supposed to... crashing the PDP-10 in high school... flashing the switchhook on my phone 95 times and getting an angry switchman who know the importance of this and should be willing to fight for it. If you and buy a newspaper, would you? A BBS is the same thing and anyone who runs a system should see this connection. Hackers tend to bring this issue to the forefront a bit more, but this is something that applies to all bulletin Meeting Captain Crunch in Amsterdam this past summer was a real trip. Finding out who Cable Pair really was certainly resulted in some highlights. I've met there who are into this kind of stuff, which is something I never knew before I talk to another with knowledge, it will always be possible to get things out of thought unimportant. Hacking can be like trashing. It looks like garbage or a more people felt this way, hackers would stand out less because everyone would still experiment all I want. Nothing can change that. For the most part I was careful while I was doing these things, but there was one time when my luck ran indictment, more than twice what anyone else got. Without hiring an expensive still didn't know who or where they were. I think I was dealt with fairly. I told them what I did and paid for the time I used. Nothing more. That was in I guess I'm an explorer because everything I like doing involves exploration of want. Traveling with people is fun but it can also be a drag because something space will rise again. Then there's free-lance writing, which I have to devote plays only because there's so much bullshit involved in TV and movies. And doing two shows: "News of the World" which is a compilation of foreign news
--More--
Received signal SIGINT
Number of input files processed = 4
Bytes read = 1314823
Bytes written = 1314823
george@george-Vostro-1400 ~/Desktop/ECE460/PS4 $ ps
  PID TTY          TIME CMD
 2340 pts/2    00:00:00 bash
 2359 pts/2    00:00:00 oosplash
 2376 pts/2    00:00:08 soffice.bin 2618 pts/2    00:00:00 ps
george@george-Vostro-1400 ~/Desktop/ECE460/PS4 $
```